ARTS, HUMANITIES & CULTURE

1) Radcliffe Institute Fellowship Program for Individual Applicants in Creative Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences
   • Deadline: September 13, 2018.
   • Amount: up to $80,000 stipend

Each of the more than 900 fellows who have been in residence at the Radcliffe Institute has pursued an independent project, but the collaborative experience unites all of them. Scholars, scientists, and artists work on individual projects, or in clusters, to generate new research, publications, art, and more.

Applications in all academic disciplines, professions, and creative arts are encouraged, and there are a few areas of special interest: Applications related to the broad theme of the human body, which is a one-year initiative across the programs of the Radcliffe Institute; Applications that involve the study of women, gender, and society, which is a commitment rooted in Radcliffe’s unique history; Applications that draw on the resources of the Schlesinger Library on the History of Women in America, which is part of the Radcliffe Institute and one of the foremost archives on women’s history; Applications for the Mellon-Schlesinger Fellowship, part of the broader Long 19th Amendment Project funded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

The Institute seeks to build a community of fellows that is diverse in every way.

1) National Academy of Education Invites Applications for Dissertation Fellowships

- Deadline: October 4, 2018
- Amount: $27,500

The National Academy of Education advances high-quality education research and its use in policy formation and practice. Founded in 1965, the academy comprises United States members and foreign associates who are elected on the basis of outstanding scholarship related to education. Since its establishment, NAEd has undertaken research studies that address pressing issues in education typically conducted by members and other scholars with relevant expertise.

As part of that mission, the NAEd/Spencer Dissertation Fellowship Program seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a wide range of disciplines and professional fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education. These $27,500 fellowships support individuals whose dissertations show potential for bringing fresh and constructive perspectives to the history, theory, analysis, or practice of formal or informal education anywhere in the world.

Although the dissertation topic must concern education, graduate study may be in any academic discipline or professional field. (Fellowships have been awarded to candidates in anthropology, architecture, art history, communications, economics, education, history, linguistics, literature, philosophy, political science, psychology, public health, religion, and sociology.)

In 2018, thirty-five fellows will receive fellowship stipends of $27,500 each to support completion of their dissertation. Funds must be expended within a time limit of up to two years and in accordance with the work plan provided by the candidate.

Applicants need not be citizens of the United States; however, they must be candidates for a doctoral degree at a graduate institution within the United States.

For complete program guidelines, information about an informational webinar, application instructions, and the site’s FAQ, see the National Academy of Education website.

HEALTH & MEDICAL RESEARCH

1) Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Issues RFP for System and Services Research for a Culture of Health
   • Deadline: September 12, 2018 (Letters of Intent)
   • Amount: up to $250,000 over four years

    Systems for Action (S4A) is a national program of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation that aims to discover and apply new evidence about ways of aligning the delivery and financing systems for medical, social, and public health services that support a Culture of Health. S4A uses a wide research lens that includes and extends beyond medical care and public health systems to include other sectors that affect health and well-being, such as housing, transportation, social services, education, criminal and juvenile justice, and economic and community development.

    As part of this mission, RWJF has issued a Request for Proposals for research that supports new scientific evidence on ways to optimize delivery and financing systems in ways that improve health and reduce inequities.

    In 2018, the program will award up to six grants of up to $250,000 over four years.

    To be eligible, applicants must either be a public entity or a nonprofit organization that is tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and be based in the United States or one of its territories. Awards will be made to organizations, not to individuals. Multi-organization consortia are encouraged to apply as long as a single eligible organization is designated as the primary applicant responsible for maintaining consortium agreements with other participating organizations.

    Letters of Intent for both categories must be received no later than September 12. Upon review, selected applicants will be invited to submit a full proposal by October 10, 2018.

1) Eppley Foundation Accepting Proposals for Pure or Applied Science In Chemistry, Physics and Biology Through Study, Research and Publication

- Deadline: September 15, 2018

The Eppley Foundation supports advanced, novel, scientific research by PhDs or MDs with an established record of publication in their specialties. Candidates with newly awarded doctorates occasionally, but rarely, meet the Foundation's requirements for advanced research.

Any applicant to the Foundation must be associated with a nonprofit organization with headquarters or a branch office in the US to process the funds. Checks are not issued directly to individuals.

Grants may be awarded for research in foreign countries but only when such applicants are US-based or associated with a US institution that will administer the grant on their behalf. The Foundation rarely considers proposals from foreign nationals studying in the US solely because they are therefore unable to qualify for federal funds.

LOIs and Proposals

Letters of inquiry and grant proposals should be written in language clear to the layman. LOIs, not to exceed 1,000 words, should be received by September 15th or March 15th. Submissions in advance of those deadlines are encouraged. LOIs should specify the sum that will be requested. Invited grant proposals are considered during board meetings in December and June of each year. For invited proposals, due on October 15 or April 15, there is no page limit, but the proposal — as the LOI — is expected to be concise and incorporate clear statements of significance, objectives, novelty, methods, expectations of success, and why the researcher believes the work cannot reasonably expect federal support, or support from other conventional funding sources. There should also be a discussion of the broader ramifications of your work once it is completed.

Notification of a successful application usually follows within two weeks of board meetings. A true emergency may be considered outside this schedule.
